TWO AUTOMOBILES COLLIDE
ON THE CLARKSVILLE PIKE

Misses Louise Jones and Gertrude Keesee Are Painfully Injured and Others Slightly Hurt.

BOTH OF THE TOURING CARS WRECKED.

The most serious automobile accident that has ever occurred in this vicinity happened late Sunday afternoon on the Clarksville pike, not far from the city, when two machines moving rapidly collided.

Mr. E. G. Peterson, Miss Louise Jones, Mr. J. E. Crider and Miss Emma Noe were in Mr. Peterson's machine, and a party of Clarksville people were in Mr. Will Chambers' machine, including Mrs. Chambers, Miss Gertrude Keesee and two others.

Mr. Peterson was driving his touring car and met Mr. J. P. Myers' car while climbing a sharp hill, when the Clarksville car came suddenly over the hill and a general collision took place. Mr. Myers' car escaped injury, but the other two were badly torn up. Miss Jones, who was on the front seat, was thrown through the windshield but sustained only a few painful bruises. She protected her face by throwing up a large fur muff to receive the blow. Mr. Peterson was badly stunned, but not seriously hurt. Miss Noe and Mr. Crider were thrown out, but escaped without injuries beyond a few slight bruises. The other car turned over into a ditch by the road side, but fortunately the occupants were not much hurt, except Miss Keesee, whose knee was injured and her lip cut, but not seriously.

Mr. Myers brought the injured ones to the city, taking the local people to their homes and Miss Keesee to the Hopkinsville Infirmary.

Mr. Peterson's car was not injured much except the windshield, but the Clarksville car was put out of commission and will need extensive repairs. All of the injured parties were out as usual yesterday.

CONSTABLE
KILLS NEGRO

In a Pistol Duel At Herndon Last Saturday Afternoon.

NEGRO RESISTED ARREST.

Charles Bush Slain By Constable Dick Adcock--Negro Died Instantly.

Constable Dick Adcock shot and instantly killed Charles Bush, a negro, Saturday night at Herndon. It is said the negro raised a disturbance at the blacksmith shop and when the officer went to arrest him, he drew a pistol, and fired at him. Adcock then drew his pistol and fired and killed the negro. Mr. Adcock surrendered to the sheriff.

The officer is a son of Mr. J. C. Adcock. He has been constable in his district for several years and has an excellent record. He appeared before Judge Knight yesterday morning and his examining trial was set for tomorrow. Mr. Adcock was released on his own recognizance.

BLAKEY A FIGHTER

Will Take Telephone Case To Higher Court Though Denied Appeal.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 16.—The clash between Federal Judge Walter Evans and City Attorney Blakey in court Tuesday at the Cumberland Telephone rate hearing probably will end the action so far as the local court is concerned. It is expected that the case will be presented to the United States supreme court or the United States court of appeals in the near future.

Half a dozen important motions made by the city attorney, the records show, were overruled by Judge Evans, who has decided every point favorably for the telephone company. In the office of the city attorney it was said: "You can depend upon it that when the case is put up before a higher tribunal a number of averments of extreme interest will be made."

Mayor Gatlin's Father.

Mr. J. W. Gatlin, aged 76, father of Mayor D. W. Gatlin, of Madisonville, died Saturday. He leaves a widow and nine sons and daughters.

UNDISPUTED
CHAMPIONS

Are the Hopkinsville High School Boys For 1912.

LAST GAME A GOOD ONE.

Henderson Team Fought Hard But Lacked Speed and Team Work.

By defeating Henderson Saturday afternoon 12 to 7, Hopkinsville won the undisputed football championship of western Kentucky high schools. Henderson outwitted the locals considerably, but the champions were faster and showed better team work. Both sides fought desperately and the game was perhaps the best ever played here. Hopkinsville High School has not lost a championship game this season, playing Paducah, Owensboro and Henderson. The team was coached this year by Dan Blake, former star and captain of the Vanderbilt University team of Nashville.

KNOCKED DOWN

And Run Over By Automobile Saturday Night.

Dr. J. G. Gaither, who was out in his automobile early Saturday night, ran against a negro man on Main street, opposite the Kentuckian office. The negro was knocked down and we understand, two wheels passed over his legs. He was not injured and got to his feet and walked off.

ARTIST COMING

To Take Up Work Of Beautifying The Parks.

Mr. Jas. F. Dawson, representing Olmsted Bros. landscape architects of Brookline, Mass., will arrive in the city Thursday to submit plans for improving Virginia Park and Peace Park. He will have a conference with the Park Committee consisting of Councilmen Dabney, Metcalfe and Haydon and Mayor Meacham.

GILLIAM
IS DEAD

And Charles Minor Must Answer To a Charge Of Murder.

TRIAL IS SET FOR TODAY.

Dead Man Made Ante Mortem Statement On Death Bed.

Charles Gilliam, the negro who was shot by Charles Minor, on the Thurmond farm at Gracey last week, died Friday night. His condition was practically hopeless from the start, as he was shot through the body with a 45 calibre bullet. Gilliam made a statement before he died, saying Minor came to the field and asked if he had a pistol and that when he said he did not Minor shot him as he turned to run away. Minor's trial is set for today.

REV. E. B. LANDIS

Resigns As Pastor of the First Presbyterian Church.

Last Sunday morning at the regular service Rev. E. B. Landis formally announced his resignation as stated supply of the First Presbyterian church, to take effect the last of this month.

This was no surprise to the membership, as rumors have been current for some time that Mr. Landis was contemplating a change. Mr. Landis was called to the pastorate in May, 1910, but was never installed. Under the rules of the Presbyterian church a called pastor can hold the call until he sees fit to accept within a year, and act as the Moderator of the session and, as a "stated supply," perform all the functions of an installed pastor.

Mr. Landis has accepted a call to the Presbyterian church at Danvers, Ill., and will remove his family about the first of December. The session of the church will arrange to supply the pulpit temporarily.

HOME WEDDING.

Colorado Man Makes Miss Shanklin His Bride.

There was a quiet home wedding Saturday night at the residence of Mr. J. Will Carroll, East Seventh street. The contracting parties were Miss Ada E. Shanklin, of this city, and Mr. Francis C. Fox, of Trinidad, Colorado. Rev. J. B. Eshman, of the Cumberland Presbyterian church officiated. Only the immediate family and a few close friends were present. The union was a consummation of an attachment of about two years. Mr. and Mrs. Fox left last night for Trinidad, where they will make their future home.

The bride is the youngest sister of police officer W. E. Shanklin. The groom is a native of the South, but has been living in Trinidad for several years.

MISSIONARY MEETINGS

At M. E. Church Every Afternoon This Week.

The Missionary Society of the Methodist church will hold a meeting every afternoon this week at 3 o'clock. No meeting at night. The meetings will be held in the Sunday School room and everybody is invited. Subjects assigned by the International Committee will be discussed. Special leaders will be appointed for each meeting, who will discuss, with others, the subject before the meeting. The closing meeting will be held next Sunday at the morning service.

FISCAL COURT
LET CONTRACT

For Iron Bridge Over Bush Creek, Near Palestine Church.

TO MEET DECEMBER FOURTH.

It Is Probable That No More Contracts Will Be Let Out This Winter.

At its meeting last Friday the Fiscal Court awarded the contract for an iron bridge across Bush Creek near Palestine church to the Champion Bridge Co. There were three bids before the court, the lowest being that of the company above named, $638.00.

On the first of November but one bid was made which was rejected. The court then asked for other bids, two other companies getting into the ring, but the Champion Co. cut down its figure to that given above, thus saving the county $132 for the same structure.

An order was entered that no more road work shall be contracted for this winter, but money subscribed for improving roads will be used on the roads for which subscriptions were made.

Before adjourning the court appointed the county supervisor of roads and County Attorney Duffy a committee to act in conjunction with the B. M. A. to secure renewals of former subscriptions for piking the road from Hopkinsville to Lafayette, the first paper containing the list of subscriptions having been lost.

Court adjourned to meet in regular monthly session on Tuesday after the first Monday in December, the third day of the month.

NICE BUNCH

Of Bracken County Night Riders Indicted For Whipping Women.

Augusta, Ky., Nov. 18.—Henry, Charles and Joe Hatfield, James E. Poe, Alonzo Thack, Foster Cooper, Wallin Gooseberry and William and Norton Workman, living near Brooksville were indicted by the Bracken county grand jury.

Mrs. Isaac Thomas Jacobs and Mrs. Florence Haley appeared before the grand jurors and charged the farmers with dragging them from their homes and beating them unmercifully with blacksnake whips. The alleged attack took place on the night of August 13.

The women kept the matter secret until the grand jury convened.

Both of the victims claim to have recognized all of the band, despite the fact that masks were worn by their assailants.

NEW STREETS

Completed And Give General Satisfaction.

The Southern Bithulithic Co. completed its contract for building new streets last Friday night. The consensus of opinion of those who watched the construction is that the new thoroughfares are far superior to anything yet attempted. The new streets extend from the L. & N. to the I. C. railroad, and from Fifth to Twelfth street on Main.

Mr. C. A. Steele, the manager for the company, has made a host of friends since he has been here. This week he will leave for Genere, Louisiana, where his company has a contract for street work. Part of the outfit has already been shipped.

PRESIDENT-ELECT SAILS OFF.

Will Visit the Bermudas Until the Middle of December.

New York, Nov. 18.—Woodrow Wilson, President-elect; Mrs. Wilson and Misses Eleanor and Jessie Wilson left New York for Bermuda shortly after 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon on the steamship Bermudian. They will be gone till December 16. A throng of well-wishers saw them off.

SEEKS DIVORCE.

Defendant Now Said to be Resident of New York.

Mrs. Mattie Bell Sisk has filed suit here for divorce from Claude J. Sisk. Plaintiff states in her petition that they were married January 16, 1904, and lived together until the first of June, 1912. She alleges cruel treatment and failure to support. The defendant is now located in New York City, the petitioner states.

In addition to an absolute divorce, the plaintiff asks the custody of their son, Thomas F. Sisk. Mrs. Sisk was, before her marriage, Miss Mattie Bell Edmundson.

NIX FOR NICK.

Congressman Nicholas Longworth Beaten By Ninety-Seven Votes.

Cincinnati, O., November 15.—The official count of Hamilton County, made public by the Board of Elections, shows that Congressman Nicholas Longworth, son-in-law of Col. Theodore Roosevelt, was defeated for Congress in the First Ohio District by Stanley Bowdle, (Dem) by 97 votes.

CAUGHT BY RELAY

Colored Shoplifter Chased A Mile Or More.

Gus Watkins, col., snatched a number of pocket-knives from a local store Saturday and was detected and chased from the store. A crowd joined in the pursuit with Officer Mitchell but Watkins outran all but Kenneth West, who stayed in sight until near the Mogul Wagon Works he called to Lewis Waller and Clyde Vinson who headed off the fugitive and he was rounded up. He was turned over to County Judge Knight, who gave him 30 days in jail. Watkins threw away the knives as he ran and half a dozen of them were picked up along his route.

WILL PROBATED.

Bulk Of Property Goes To Daughter.

The will of the late Samuel E. Boyd was probated in County Court a few days ago. To his daughter, Lula Boyd, he bequeathed his farm, stock and household goods. Small bequests were made to his sons, J. S. and W. S. Boyd, also to the three children of his deceased son, Geo. S. Boyd. James S. Boyd was named as executor. The instrument bears date of July 24, 1912.

STILL ANOTHER BREAK
IN EUROPEAN HIGH LIFE

Along the boulevards and in fashionable circles in Paris it is reported that the Duke and Duchess of Morny have come to the parting of the ways. This report was spread when it was learned that the separation of the property of the Duke and Duchess had been ordered. In France this is the first step toward a legal severance of the marriage ties. The beautiful Duchess, who is one of the few ladies licensed to wear male attire by the French government, and who at various times has startled even Paris by parading in public in male attire, cigar and all, has figured with extreme prominence in the news of recent months.

The Duchess, who at the amateur theatricals and receptions she has given has been pointed out as one of the most beautiful women in France, the assertion often being indorsed by such celebrated artists as Madras and others, was Carlotta Guzman-Blanco, daughter of Antonio Guzman-Blanco, who preceded Castro as president of Venezuela.

The Duke is one of the most prominent men in Paris social life. His father was the famed Duke of Morny, who made it possible for Napoleon III.
to become emperor of France. For this Napoleon loaded the Duke's father with wealth in jewels and land and gave him one of the highest positions within the gift of an emperor.

It was rumored some time ago that there was to be a divorce and that the Duke had designs on a wealthy young American heiress. Nothing came of the report, however.
Their friends argue that divorce will be impossible, because they are both devout Catholics.

W. K. VANDERBILT
RECOVERED HIS PIN

The following story of a recent adventure at a fashionable seaside resort in France, of which W. K.
Vanderbilt is said to be the hero, is going the rounds of Paris, and has even found its way into print.
Mr. Vanderbilt, it is stated, while spending an hour or two at the Casino, suddenly discovered that his scarf-pin, containing an $8,000 pearl, had disappeared. Greatly annoyed, he immediately informed a detective employed to watch the gaming rooms, and offered a liberal reward, of the jewel, to which he attached great value as a souvenir, was restored to him.

Promising to do his best, the detective disappeared. Ten minutes later he returned with a well-groomed man in evening dress, who politely begged
Mr. Vanderbilt to follow him.
When both were screened from view behind a clump of foliage, the man took from his pocket a handful of valuables and scarfpins, and held them out to Mr. Vanderbilt, saying quietly:

"I'm sorry to say I'm not quite certain which is yours. However, here are my pins for this evening. Perhaps you will choose yours from them."

Mr. Vanderbilt, rather nonplussed, at once picked out his pin, handing over in exchange the promised reward to the "finder," who, after this courteously departed into the night.

The name of the fashionable resort is not given with certainty, but the most popular version says it was Deauville.

Bells and Steeples.

The church spire at Shaftesbury, Isle of Wight, England, is now being pulled down. There is a curious couplet relating to this spire, which runs:
"The Shaftesbury poor and silly people sold their bells to build a steeple." And the local tradition is that about a century ago, when the building of steeples was the fashion, the parishioners sold the peal of bells which hung in the fine old square Norman tower to the inmates of a French monastery and with the money thus obtained erected a steeple on the top of the tower. The erection has been an eyecore to archaeologists ever since, and much has been written deprecating its existence, but the parishioners have been satisfied with their steeple until just recently, when it was discovered that it was in a very dangerous state, and its weight was seriously damaging the old tower beneath. It has therefore been decided to pull down the structure, and an urgent appeal is being made for funds to remove it and to renovate the ancient tower.

Montevideo to Be Fine Port.

Montevideo, chief port of Uruguay, which ranks seventh in the ports of the world in total tonnage of vessels entering and clearing, is to be one of the finest ports in the world when improvements which have been decided on are carried out. The government will spend $30,000,000 in the next eight years in making the harbor deep enough for all vessels, and in order that the keen competition with Buenos Aires may be kept up.

JUNE THE MARRIAGE MONTH

Its General Selection Is Simply the Survival of One of the Oldest Superstitions.

The superstitions relating to marriage are perhaps the queerest of all superstitions. Even the custom of the bride tossing her bouquet to the bridesmaids is pure superstition, though we scarcely consider it such since it is so universally in vogue.
Even this superstition does not compare with some of the others.

Our forefathers believed in magical invocations, love philters and fastings. June was then, as now, the month of months. The Romans considered the most fortunate month of the year for the season of marriage was June.

If there happened to be a full moon on the wedding day this was especially fortunate. They also believed that it meant woe to the couple married in May, and this month was always avoided if possible because it was believed that then the people united in marriage would be under the influence of spirits adverse to happy households.

In those days the marriage was never considered fortunate if the bridal party, in going to church, met a monk, a priest, a hare, a dog, a cat, a lizard, or serpent; while all would go well if it were a wolf, a spider or a toad.

CHILDREN STRONG AT BIRTH

Are Capable of Sustaining Their Whole Weight by One Finger for Astonishing Length of Time.

Medical men assert that, according to well-conducted tests, it is shown that the new-born babe is relatively much stronger than a full-grown man. The muscles of the forearm are astonishingly vigorous.
A few hours after birth a baby suspended by its finger to a stick or to the finger of a grown person can sus-tain itself in the air for about ten seconds—in the case of particularly strong infants for so long a period as thirty seconds.

When four days old an appreciable increase in the infant's strength may be noticed, and the time during which it can thus sustain itself is about 2½ minutes for 98 per cent.
of babies. The maximum is attained in two weeks. Few infants can "hang on" for more than 1½ minutes, although it is of record that one exceptionally developed child remained suspended for 2 minutes and 38 seconds by his right hand. After that he continued to hang on with his left for 15 seconds longer.—Harper's Weekly.

NO PLACE FOR HITCHCOCK

Postmaster General the Victim of His Own Orders, Most Faithfully Carried Out.

Frank H. Hitchcock, the postmaster general of the United States, takes the deepest interest in even the smallest details of the postal service. One evening he was at the Union station in Washington, when he decided to go into one of the railway mail service cars to see how the mail matter was being handled. Being a tall man and very athletic, he easily swung himself from the platform into the car, but he did not find it an easy matter to stay put. A burly postal clerk grabbed him by the shoulders, propelled him toward the side door, and practically ejected him to the platform below.

"What do you mean by that?" asked Hitchcock, indignantly.

"I mean to keep you out of this car," replied the clerk roughly. "Hitchcock has given us strict orders to keep all strangers out of these cars."—Popular Magazine.

For Tired Feet.

When your feet ache, caused by long standing, exercise them by rising first to the toes, then on the heels, in a rocking motion for a few times. This was advised by a specialist.—Woman's Home Companion.

Nice Quiet Place.

"Did you find a nice quiet place to spend the season?" "Yes," replied Mr. Growcher. "Everybody else in the family went away and I stayed home."—Washington Star.

Season of Solitude During Formative Period Best to Bring Men to Intellectual Fruition.

Man, for his full development, needs something more than meat and drink. He needs something more than even education and companionship. There are times when he needs the solitude of the open spaces; when he needs to be left alone with the lake or the ocean, the mountains or the desert, to get at grips with the twin realities—nature and himself. It is no accident that most of the men who have moved the world, from Mohammed to Washington, have spent a season of solitude in the open spaces during the formative period of their lives.

It is no accident that the prophets of mankind have come from the borders of the wilderness, where the line that "divides the desert from the town" may be passed at a step. The cities have their inspiration. The schools have their uses. But while man remains man, he cannot wholly dispense with the need of the wide spaces where nature keeps her college of humility.—Exchange.

CLEVER IDEA OF "THE DUKE"

Many There Are Who Would Be Pleased to Attend Such a "Duck" Dinner.

Felix Hoendorf, known to half a million Californians as "the duke," was at his club very late one Sunday evening. If anyone does not know "the duke," he is very easy to identify whenever he is in evidence. The duke suggested that Jimmy Scanlon, a well-known citizen of San Francisco, give a duck dinner.

"But the ducks are out of season," Jimmy protested. "Well," said the duke, in accents Teutonic, "you invite that beautiful girl I see you with and also invite me. When you have paid the check, duck."

That's the duke. For further purposes of identification it might be added it was he who, being brought a platter of chicken fricassée, and discovering that it was composed entirely of the wings of the bird, said: "Take that back to Mr. Paulhan; I don't like that aviation meat."—Los Angeles Times.

WHY HE NEEDED THE SHOES

Passenger With a Trunk Full of Footwear Was in the Toe-Dancing Business.

New York customs inspectors who greeted arriving passengers from the liner Caronia were somewhat surprised in examining the trunk of a tall, quiet appearing first cabin passenger, to find nothing except shoes. "Anything else in this trunk?" asked the inspector.

"No, sir," replied the tall man, "only shoes. There should be 157 pairs."

"Are you in the shoe business?"

"No," said the passenger, casually. "I'm a toe dancer. These are my stock in trade. I seldom wear a pair more than three times. I dance so violently that the toes are ruined after three dances."

The inspector shut the trunk lid and admitted the shoes duty free.

IRELAND'S NATIONAL COLOR.

Now that the "wearing of the green" is no longer a hanging matter for Irishmen they seem inclined to discard it altogether. Sir Edward Burne-Jones is quoted as saying that "Green isn't a lucky color for any Celtic creature to wear," while it is remembered that Parnell had positive superstitions against it. Indeed, he was inclined to believe that Ireland's bad luck was due to her adoption of green as the national color and he always looked forward with pleasure to being in a position to change it. And yet this may not have been wholly a superstition. Color is now a recognized curative force in medicine and it is conceivable that a concentration of national sentiment upon a particular hue might have its effect upon temperament.

Rabbits Cause Immense Loss.

Observant and experienced men compute that eight or ten rabbits eat or destroy as much grass as one sheep. As there are so many millions of rabbits in Australia, the loss in the carrying capacity of the country is appalling. The pest in New South Wales is spreading, notwithstanding all that is being done in the shape of trapping, poisoning, fumigating, and digging out.

Stopped Those Pains,

Copper Hill, Va.—Mrs. Ida Conner, of this place, says: "For years I had a pain in my right side and was very sick with womanly troubles. I tried different doctors but could get no relief. I had given up all hope of ever getting well. I took Cardui and it relieved the pain in my side, and now I feel like a new person. It is a wonderful medicine." Many women are completely worn out and discouraged on account of some womanly trouble. Are you? Take Cardui, the woman's tonic. Its record shows that it will help you. Why wait? Try it today. CONDUCTS BUTTERFLY FARM.

For twenty-eight years H. W. Head, who lives on his little farm in Yorkshire, England, has made a business of breeding butterflies, and he now has a wonderful collection of between 300 and 400 varieties of British and foreign butterflies and moths, and a set-up stock of 400,000, all produced on his grounds. He was the first to breed the butterfly in captivity, and today he owns the largest butterfly farm in the British isles. He is an able and keen entomologist and his successes have been striking.

THE LANCE.

The lance has been ridiculed by many military experts, on the ground that it is out of date and cumbersome, but the weapon still has its advocates who point out its value in shock tactics and in cavalry charges. In Germany, for instance, the lance in the hands of the Prussian Uhlans remains a formidable weapon.

Recently attention has been called to the fact that the lance point often makes too deep a wound for the shaft to be withdrawn quickly, and that therefore the lancer runs the risk of having it wrenched from his grasp in the charge. In view of this the cavalry in Germany have been experimenting with a new kind of lance carrying a ball below the base of the lance head. It is said that the new arm is just as effective in disabling an enemy and is free from many disadvantages.—Hamper's Weekly.

CLOSE TO BURIAL ALIVE.

A remarkable case of a woman coming back to life after being certified as dead has occurred at Tonbridge, Kent, England. The woman suffered from consumption and apparently died from that complaint. She was placed in a coffin and the funeral was arranged to take place two days later. Just before the service was to have been read, however, her brother was in the next room in attendance on his mother, when he heard a noise in the adjoining apartment, and on entering was startled to find his sister sitting upright in her coffin. She died the following day, having survived the terrible experience two days.

TRACING THE DOG'S DESCENT

Generally Accepted Opinion Is That His Progenitor Was the Common Wolf or Jackal.

It seems to be generally accepted by naturalists and the world at large that the domestic dog is in some sense a collateral descendant of the wolf or jackal.

A professor in the Natural History museum in Paris has communicated results of his study of various canine skulls to the Academy of sciences. He appears to have noticed certain peculiarities of growth which have hitherto escaped zoologists. He states that the skull of almost every species of wolf and jackal differs from the skull of the shepherd dog to an extent that makes it impossible that this dog should belong in the same classification. The skull of the Indian wolf, on the contrary, shows some points of resemblance. This, indeed, is the only savage canine the top of whose head projects like that of our dog.

There are, moreover, other characteristics which the Indian wolf has in common with the dog, and which the ordinary wolf does not share with them, although his origin and that of the dog have long been supposed to be a common one.

The conclusion of this scientist is that the Indian wolf is the progenitor of the shepherd dog and the bloodhound. There were two primitive races of dogs analogous to these which were first domesticated in central Asia, whence they passed to Europe, and there seems no reason to doubt that the bloodhound of today is the direct descendant of the dog spoken of by the ancients as "the dog of the age of bronze."—Harper's Weekly.

THE FATIGUING PART

Dicks—I see you've got an auto. I don't suppose it's hard to run. Wicks—Not nearly so hard as it is to walk. That is what makes me tired.

Wisdom of Childhood.

The following composition on men is credited to a little girl: "Men are what women marry. They drink and smoke and swear, but don't go to church. Perhaps if they wore bonnets they would. They are more logical than women and also more zoological. Both men and women sprung from monkeys, but the women sprung further than the men."

IDEA FOR KEEPING POTATOES

Proposed Method of Desiccating the Vegetable Is to Be Attempted in Germany.

An attempt is being made in Germany to save the five million tons of potatoes lost annually in that country through lack of immediate market by desiccating, or drying the vegetable, so that it may be preserved in usable form.

Pressure is used to withdraw the bulk of the water from the potato and artificial heat dries the resulting "meal." This meal has one-quarter of the original weight and occupies one-eighth the space. It tastes and smells somewhat like newly made bread. It may be used or kept in this condition for considerable periods. Pressed into cakes, it is used for animal food. In practice 3.8 tons of potatoes yield about one ton of potato meal at a cost of about 56 cents a ton. Twelve cents a ton added for pressing makes the cost of the cake 68 cents, which is not high for fodder of such quality. Chemical analysis shows the following percentage of food value: Water, 11.50; fat, 0.31; protein, 3.73; ash, 2.06; fiber, 1.71; carbohydrates, 80.69. The residual liquor, after pressing, is about 80 per cent. pure albumen, which has a ready market.—Harper's Weekly.

GIRLS AS GOLF CANDIDATES.

Not only the German golfer is beginning to recognize that girl caddies have many advantages over the boy caddie, but golfers in England, France and other European countries are also employing them with great success. And this is perhaps as it should be. The employment of boys at a time of life when they should be learning some useful trade constitutes a source of real danger to the youth of this or any other country. The girls are also said to be more intelligent and generally quicker and in many other ways other ways more fitted for the occupation, which is health-giving without being too strenuous.

HELPING RUSSIAN WOMEN.

Mme. Vera de Blumenthal, now co-operating with the Zemstvo of Ryazan, Russia, to establish a new lace school for the benefit of peasant women, is a born Russian, but for a number of years has lived in Pasadena, Cal. Ten years ago she became interested in this work while a resident of Chicago, and has since disposed of much peasant-made lace and drawn work. Through the fund thus established by her—she having aided it also from her private purse—five girls in one district are receiving training in lace schools.

GROWTH OF THE MOVEMENT.

Jefferson County Leads With its Magnificent Gardening Land—How William Frey Grew Eighty-eight Bushels of Potatoes on One-fourth of an Acre.

Gradually the thinking school people are beginning to see and understand that if the parents will not go to the school the school must go to the home and make itself felt. Nothing has helped more in this movement than the boys' corn and potato clubs in this and many other states. The tremendous growth of the movement is due largely to a rational use of the children's enthusiasm and desire TO DO SOMETHING THEMSELVES. PLEASURE IN ACHIEVEMENT COMES FROM DOING IT YOURSELF, and pleasure in achievement is the largest factor in human life.

William and Walter Frey live about eight miles from Louisville in a splendid farming and gardening section of Jefferson county. When your reporter visited them on Saturday, 2d of November, he found them busy storing "second crop" potatoes for the winter market.

William Frey, the elder brother, grew one-fourth of an acre of potatoes this season. He harvested eighty-eight bushels of splendid tubers on the plot. When he was asked about the crop and its cultivation, he said:

"Yes, that yield was some better than most of the neighbors around here. You see, eighty-eight bushels on my little piece is the same as 117 barrels to the acre. Of course I did some things the neighbors didn't do, because I did all of my work from the directions the government sent me. Everybody plows manure under when they break the ground in the spring, but I used my two big wagon loads of rotted manure for a top dressin' after my potatoes were in the ground.

"The folks that came over here said my potatoes were darker green than any of the others in the neighborhood, an' we all saw that the vines were mighty heavy an' fine. I went over the patch three times with a fourteen tooth cultivator, an' I was careful not to let it cut deeper than two inches. After that I gave it two workin's with a five tooth cultivator.

"Yes, my potatoes will get the first prize this year in this county. It'll make the quarter of an acre pay mighty well, because it's $50 in gold."

Walter Frey, the younger brother, has an acre of corn in the contest, but it had not been husked when your correspondent visited the farm early in November. The ground showed that careful work had been done during the summer, and the eighteen huge shocks that stood upon the acre gave promise of a large yield.

"I planted the Boone County White that the state furnished us boys," he said in answer to my questions, "but I only got about half a stand of corn, so I had to use some of our own Boone County for replanting the acre. Of course a bad stand is a mighty poor start in a corn contest. Next time I am goin' to test the seed so as to be sure about my stand.

"Yes, I used a lot of manure on this acre. Before I plowed it this spring I scattered four big loads of manure so I could turn it under.

"I was goin' to do more plowin' an' cultivatin' than anybody around here this year, but a big windstorm tangled it so I had to quit early. I did cultivate four times an' didn't stir the ground more than two inches deep. The directions for corn makes that a mighty strong point."

IS GARDEN OF EDEN MYTH?

Science and Poetry Clash in Determining the Status of Our Forebears.

Carlyle turned his back upon Huxley on the streets of London because Huxley had taught that mankind had an ape-like ancestor. Why is such a thought uncongenial and repelling? No doubt that it is so, John Burroughs writes in the Atlantic. There is no poetry or romance in it as there is in the Garden of Eden myth. If we could look up to our remote progenitors instead of down, if we could see them clothed in light and wisdom instead of clothed in hair and bestiality, how much more enticing and comforting the prospect would be! But we simply cannot, we must see them down a long, darkening and forbidding prospect, clothed in low, animal forms and leading low, animal lives—a prospect that grows more and more dim till it is lost in the abyss of geologic time.

Carlyle would have none of it! The Garden of Eden story had more beauty and dignity. That this "backward glance o'er traveled roads" repels us is no concern of science. It repels us because we regard it from a higher and fairer estate. Go back there and look up, let the monkey see himself as man (if he were capable of it), and what would his emotions be? The prehistoric man living in caves and clothed in skins, if we go no further back, is not a cheering person to contemplate. And his hairy, low-browed forbears in Tertiary times—can we see ourselves in them? It makes a vast difference whether we see the past as poetry or see it as science. In the Bible and in Whitman we see it as poetry, in Darwin we see it as science.

Mrs. I. P. Duke, 655 O'Neal St., Hopkinsville, Ky., says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills several years ago. I had pains in my back and sides, as well as other troubles arising from the kidneys. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills so highly recommended, I got a box and used them as directed. They promptly cured me and since then I have had no further need of kidney medicine. I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills as they do just as advertised."

Old French Furniture.

The old French cabinet makers, like the old masters in violin making, had the fashion of stamping their names on their manufactures. Today a cabinet or secretaire with the name of an old French master cabinet maker, maitre ebeniste, may bring a great price. Such was the case a short time ago when a commode signed C. C. Saunier, M. E., brought in Paris $25,200.

"I have been somewhat constipated, but Doan's Regulators give just the results I desire. They act mildly and regulate the bowels perfectly."—Geo. D. Krause, Altoona, Pa. Advertisement.

Pretty Girls and Plain Men.

When a pretty woman marries a plain man it is not because she pities him. A woman loves a man because of his strength. His determination appeals to her, and wins her in the end, though she may not have been attracted to him in the beginning. Firmness compels a woman's admiration and respect, and that is the first stepping stone to love.

Thought His Duty Ended.

The Duc de Raguse once explained to the Countess de Boigne the nature of his connection with the emperor as follows: "When the emperor said, 'All for France,' I served with enthusiasm; when he said, 'France and I,' I served with obedience; but when he said, 'I without France, I felt the necessity of separating from him.'"

Didn't Appreciate Whitman.

Shortly after Walt Whitman's "Leaves of Grass" made its appearance, J. T. Trowbridge was walking with Lowell in Cambridge, when the latter pointed out a door-way sign, "Groceries," with the letters set zigzag, to produce a bizarre effect. "That," said he, "is Walt Whitman—with very common goods inside."

Yield of a Grain of Wheat.

Very few people have an idea of the bounty of nature. A scientist of Cambridge, Eng., recently made an instructive experiment which showed that a single grain of wheat sown in June, produced 47 pounds 7 ounces. One acre of fairly good land will produce 30 bushels of wheat or 1260 pounds of flour.

Clever Idea of Thieves.

An up-to-date method of robbing hotels is exposed in the German papers. Two young men of excellent appearance are moving about Germany, staying at the best hotels in the leading holiday resorts. After dinner one of them amuses the hotel guests with songs, pianoforte solos and anecdotes, thus keeping the majority of them in the drawing room, while his companion ransacks the private rooms for money and valuables.

FOOD FAD ALWAYS WITH US

Sometimes Carried to Extremes, but More Frequently Medium of Clever Advertising.

A man who has won considerable publicity as a faddist in food theories was taken to a Chicago hospital the other day in a serious condition as a result of his method of living.

The man had announced that 26 cents a week was enough for a person to spend on food. He set out to prove it by subsisting on limited rations of oatmeal crackers. The doctors now declare that he brought himself to the verge of death from starvation by this mode of living.

Other faddists in the east recently claimed fasting a cure for all sorts of diseases. They would substitute fasting for the surgeon's knife and the operating table. Usually the faddist proved to be a man with a "temperament." He also knew the art of the press agent. At the close of a lengthy interview to the newspapers on how cancer or some equally malignant disease could be cured by fasting, the man advertised a new novel or play which he was just finishing.

Once these faddists got into the newspapers and advertised themselves thoroughly they suddenly dropped out of the public eye. Among the nearest friends it was known that they had returned to the old-fashioned idea of three square meals a day.

TALK AND TALKERS.

To talk entertainingly does not necessarily mean to talk a great deal or to monopolize the conversation. Some women talk nearly all the time and bore every one who listens to them with their inane chatter.

No; the art of conversation is a sort of game of give and take. You make a remark about something which amuses or interests you, and this immediately suggests something else to those gathered round. But if one person insists in selfishly monopolizing the talk all spontaneity goes at once, and the listeners are fatigued and bored instead of being amused and interested.

INDIANS NOT "FADING OUT."

The notion that the Indian race is "fading out" is not supported by facts. There are now, according to the last reports, 266,000 Indians in the country with 30,000 in special and reservation schools supported by the government at an annual cost of $4,000,000. Curiously enough, the Indians of the United States have shared disproportionately with the whites in the "unearned increment," being richer upon an average or per capita basis than the white race. This is due to the growth in value of reservation lands.

WHY AMY DECLINED NEW SET OF FURS

By INEZ DE JARNATT COOPER.

"Ray, I want $50."

"Whew!" Raymond Ford, married three years and already losing the boyishness which made him such a favorite, looked decidedly surprised. "The coal bill is not paid yet. The rent is due the first, you know, and then—my new overcoat. I can't meet men much longer on the boss' business with that coat. It queers things."

Amy, a slim brunette, whom her husband worshiped, held her red lips down, puckered her straight brows, drawing her face into a becoming pout. "I am going down town to shop with Mrs. Jack Pendleton." She was very proud to be asked to shop with Mrs. Jack, the acknowledged leader of their bridge club. "I wanted to get some furs like hers. I told her you would let me have them," she wheedled. "Jack Pendleton," she continued, "earns $10 less a week than you, and she has loads of pretty things that I never think of getting."

A few moments more of cajoling and reproaches alternated, and Ray took out his wallet, handed his wife $10, closed it on two $1 bills and thrust its slimmest into his pocket. Apparently without noticing the flushed disappointment of his pretty wife, he left for the office, passing down the street, a hard look on his open face, and that unflinching sign of burden, the forward thrust shoulders.

Amy, swallowing her mortification, hurried about her light duties and was ready when Mrs. Jack, wearing her fetching set of new furs, called for her.

All morning Amy and Mrs. Jack shopped between brief respites in the rest-rooms of the various department stores, where Amy, chagrined at not having the money for the furs, poured out her woes to one who sympathized, flattered and pitted.

As luncheon time approached they neared the jam at the elevator, which took the hungry shoppers to the seventh floor and restaurant. It was in this crush that Amy distinctly saw Mrs. Jack deftly extract a belt buckle from a heaped box in one of the low stalls and secrete it in her great muff.

Mrs. Jack laughed amusedly. "Don't look so horrified," she advised. "You will draw attention."

No more was said until they were seated in a quiet corner of the grill room, waiting for their luncheon. "This good muff of mine," Mrs. Jack volunteered as she laid it carefully beside her, "has carried almost a wardrobe for me. Why," she laughed, at the look of abhorrence on Amy's face, "you must try it. You can lay it on a silk counter and work in enough for a gown. I am fearfully hungry," she added, as the waiter came into hearing.

Amy's repugnance was unmistakable, and after her companion had spent several moments in daintily arranging her luncheon, the latter raised a pink, pretty face. "Little saint," she said banteringly, "I just did it to shock you. I feel so full of fun and animal spirits today. And just to prove it I will drop the buckle into this umbrella stand here. It would be good enough for the employers, though," she continued, having deposited the buckle according to her word, "if people did take things. They pay their clerks such wretched wages!"

So talking and treating the matter as a huge joke, Mrs. Jack won Amy back to confidence before they had finished their luncheon and proceeded on the afternoon's pleasure.

Amy never could tell how it happened, whether because of an awkward stumble on her part, or whether Mrs. Jack was not deft enough in using her for an innocent shield; but early in the afternoon, when they were standing at the glove counter, a floor walker finally grasped Mrs. Jack by the arm, and a little circle, at the sound of her indignant protests, gathered round them. At this she drew herself up, and a beautiful cut-glass castor dropped from her great muff to the floor, shivering into a thousand pieces.

It was a dramatic moment—of anguish so intense that Amy could never after bear to hear the crashing of glass without a shudder.

To the office they were piloted before she had time to drop her veil, and there, with a dismayed clutching of her heart, she found Alex McKey, a warm friend of her husband.

band. McKey, a reporter for the Clarion, was at the store on his routine work.

"Why, Mrs. Peterson?" exclaimed he, extending his hand, "what an unpleasant thing for you to witness!"

With a rush of grateful feeling Amy took her cue and as Mrs. Peterson went through the ordeal it was McKey who vouched for her. He it was who knew that about Mrs. Jack which would separate the two women from that day. Questioned and searched, questioned again with McKey at her side, pleasant and unembarrassed, helped by the skill of his calling, she was dismissed; while her companion, whom she never saw again, was retained.

As they left the office together she tried to thank McKey, but he stopped her with, "I owe a lot to Ray," put her on the car, and she returned, weak-kneed and trembling, to her home.

At dinner that night, the dinner she had taken special pains to prepare, Ray, worn and drawn, announced that the money for the furs was at hand.

"Furs? I detest them!" she burst out. "I don't want any new clothes ever. I hate all the new ones I have! And," she concluded with a womanliness which had made the old Amy, the Amy of the honeymoon, so irresistible, "I don't want any more money. I shan't need any money for ages!"

Ray rose abruptly from the table, walked straight to the hall, seized his hat, jerked on his overcoat, and saying that he had to go back to the office banged the door, leaving Amy wondering and somewhat hurt at his lack of appreciation.

Still, she knew that if there was estrangement the fault lay with her, and with a meekness which was part of her atonement set about means of keeping the dinner warm till her husband should return.

Meantime Ray was forging home with shoulders held up instead of thrust forward, and his face had a good, healthy tinge instead of the gray it had carried all day, for he had returned to the cash drawer of his employer the first and last money he ever unlawfully touched.—Los Angeles Times.

HARD WORK.

"Wealth has its penalties," said the ready-made philosopher.

"Yes," replied Mr. Cumrox. "I'd rather be back at the dear old factory than learning to pronounce the names of the old masters in my picture gallery."—Washington Star.

NO EXCUSE FOR THIS.

"Schepps calls himself the 'key-stone' of the New York police mud-dle."

"Just so."

"Which strengthens the belief that he is an arch-conspirator."

GREAT DISCOVERY.

"I tell you we live in an age of progress."

"How now?"

"Now some sharp has discovered that you kin shake fleas off a dog with a vacuum cleaner."

BAD ENOUGH.

"There ain't nothin' very bad about me, ma'am, there ain't," said the beggar at the Boston back door. "Think not?" said the lady with the spectacles at the door. "How about your grammar?"

DISTRIBUTION.

"Give as you are able this morning, brethren," pleaded Pastor Goodsole. "The deacons will collect the prosperity, so to speak, and I'll pass it around—among my clamorous creditors."

THE TROUBLE.

"What was the matter with the young and thriving industry you started?"

"I am afraid it got infant paraly-sis."

MORE TO THE PURPOSE.

"Does Gigly drink like a fish?"

"No. He drinks like a man who wants what he wants when he wants it."

For Women Who Care

Of course you use an antiseptic in your family and in the care of your own person, and you want the best.

Instead of what you have been using such as liquid or tablet antiseptics or peroxide, won't you please try Paxtine, a concentrated antiseptic powder to be dissolved in water as needed.

Paxtine is more economical, more cleansing, more germicidal and more healing than anything you ever used.

Paxtine
ANTISEPTIC

In the toilet—to cleanse and whiten the teeth, remove tartar and prevent decay. To disinfect the mouth, destroy disease germs, and purify the breath. To keep artificial teeth and bridgework clean and odorless. To remove nicotine from the teeth and purify the breath after smoking. To eradicate perspiration odors by sponge bathing.

As a medicinal agent for local treatment of feminine ills where pelvic catarrh, inflammation and ulceration exist, nothing equals hot douches of Paxtine. For ten years the Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co. has been wisely advising their patients to use Paxtine because of its extraordinary cleansing, healing and germicidal power. For this purpose alone Paxtine is worth its weight in gold. Also for nasal catarrh, sore throat, inflamed eyes, cuts and wounds. All druggists, 25 and 50 cents a box. Trial box and testimony of 31 women free on request.

COUNCIL SESSION

Transacts Much Important Business Friday Night.

BITULITHIC CONTRACT DONE.

Mrs. W. A. Radford To Go To New York On Library Business.

The Council met Friday night with all present except Councilman Haydon, who was out of the city. Councilman Bradley took his seat as representative from the Seventh ward.

The completion of the contract for 13,356 yards of bitulithic streets was reported and the Street Committee will inspect the streets and report at the next meeting.

An appropriation was made to pay the expenses of Mrs. W. A. Radford to New York, on business in connection with the proposed Carnegie library.

Mayor Meacham reported that the city's temporary floating debt of $22,000 due the banks, had been paid. The Council also ordered the calling in of $2,000 of the $8,500 of old railroad bonds, and $1,000 of the 1910 High School issue.

The Corporations Committee was directed to report renewal contracts with the Water Company and the Public Service Co. for lights. An additional arc light was ordered in at 11th and Railroad streets.

The suspension of Officer M. W. Merritt was extended indefinitely by the Council, an investigation to be entered into upon some date to be agreed upon. K. H. Keach has been appointed policeman pending further action.

Trial Near End.

The case of the four gunmen on trial for killing Rosenthal in New York at the instigation of Becker, already convicted, will go to the jury to-day.

Local Paragraphs

Christmas goods are being received and buying and laying aside "to avoid the rush" has already begun.

Every once and a while we hear a Democrat say that the party owes a debt of gratitude to Roosevelt for letting Wilson. Judging from changes made by the father of the Moose party against Mr. Wilson, Col. Roosevelt did not have the success of Mr. Wilson at heart, but the contrary.

Another good rain Tuesday night cheered the hearts of the farmers, but a sudden drop in the temperature prevented tobacco coming "in order."

The ornamental work of the new moving picture show is being pushed and it won't be long before the pictures will begin to move.

Farmers report wheat as looking splendidly. A year ago the indications were quite unfavorable for half a crop—and we didn't have it.

It was a large and happy throng at the Ninth Street Christian Church last Tuesday night. Many were there who had not been at services for many months.

Though there are a billion and more eggs in cold storage in the large cities the price in the local groceries has been advanced five cents per dozen. 35 cents is the price now. Many housewives bought their Christmas supplies when the price was 20 cents and packed them away in salt.

AMUSEMENTS.

"Two Merry Tramps," since last presented here has been all rewritten and improved with twelve new and novel musical numbers, all of the whistly kind. Several of the numbers are of the latest, among them being "The Famous Squabs," "The Chantecler Craze" and the never to be forgotten waltz hit, "Edelweiss." This attraction will be the offering at Holland's Opera House Wednesday, Nov. 20.

An Ideal Sunday Newspaper.

Recent issues of The Sunday Record-Herald remind one that Chicago may fairly lay claim to producing the best newspapers, in the world, not excepting those of New York. The Sunday Record-Herald, in foreign news alone, has its own special cable service in addition to those of the New York Herald, World, Journal of Commerce and Associated Press. This is a fair example of the completeness of the paper in every department.

Aside from the regular news features, there is something in the Sunday Record-Herald for every member of the family. The sporting pages, both daily and Sunday, give the latest authentic news in every line of sport. The woman's section is filled with illustrated articles on the newest wrinkles in fashion and domestic science. "The People's Institute of Domestic Economy," filling a whole page every Sunday, is the newest and best household department of any paper. Dame Courtney's "Novelties in Entertainment" is a valued feature. The dramatic and musical pages, written by James C. Donnell Bennett and Felix Borowski, are admittedly without their equal in the West. The array of splendid special articles by skilled writers, finely illustrated, also is typical of the high literary quality of The Record-Herald. In the way of humor there is the comic colored supplement for children, besides S. E. Kiser's delightful "Alternating Currents" for everybody.

But the thing that lifts The Sunday Record-Herald most emphatically above all its rivals is its magazine section—a real magazine, full of stories and articles by the most famous writers of our day, illustrated by celebrated artists. Its recent $10,000 prize contest has attracted to its pages the work of the best short story writers in our language. No wonder The Record-Herald is regarded as the ideal Sunday newspaper.

Fine Weather Promised.

Washington, Nov. 17.—Indications are that the prevailing fair weather will continue during the week over the central, southern and extreme western portions of the country, with a tendency toward somewhat higher temperatures on Tuesday, according to the weather bureau's weekly bulletin. There are no present prospects of unusually cold weather over any portion of the country during the week.

MISS FANNIE YANCEY

Injured By Horse Running Away Saturday.

Miss Fannie Yancey, who makes her home with Mr. Hiram Sively at Salubria Springs, came very near being the victim of a serious accident last Saturday. She was driving an old family horse along the Nashville road and when she reached the point where the road branches off to Salubria Springs the horse became frightened at a dog that sprang at it from the roadside and ran away. Miss Yancey was unable to control the animal and it ran some distance, turning the buggy over and dragging the young lady some distance before she was able to extricate herself. The wonder is that she was not killed or seriously injured. She, however, was badly bruised about the head and received an ugly wound near one of her eyes. It has been but two or three months since a mule Mr. Sively was riding ran off about the same place and seriously injured him.

LAST STAND

Turks and Bulgarians In Death Grapple and Chorus Raging.

The crucial battle between the Turks and Bulgarians is on all along the Thetalia lines. Cannonading was heard throughout Sunday at Constantinople. A marine duel was fought on the Sea of Marmora. Nazim Pasha reported that the Bulgarians were repulsed. Cholera conditions in Constantinople are reported to be desperate, more than 1,000 cases developing daily. The explosion of a powder magazine at Saloniki killed 312 and wounded 430 Turks.

FUNERAL DIRECTORS.

Collided With Train.

Five people were injured, one perhaps fatally, when Louisville & Nashville passenger train No. 9, from Cincinnati, crashed into a touring car carrying a party of five people on Broadway Tuesday night. The accident occurred at one of the most congested railroad crossings in Louisville, and was witnessed by scores of pedestrians. They were country people from Spencer county.

Died Of Appendicitis

Lee Underwood, of near Kelly, died Saturday of appendicitis, after a brief illness.

The deceased was a son of J. W. Underwood, and was about 22 years of age. The family physician attended him, but called a physician from Hopkinsville. When the latter arrived he found that the disease had made such progress that an operation was beyond reason. The burial took place Sunday at the Boyd burying ground.

The beautiful Confederate monument at Princeton, Ky., was unveiled Saturday.

Bets Hinge On It.

San Francisco Nov. 15.—In all probability the question whether Roosevelt or Wilson carried California will be taken up by the National House of Representatives. Roosevelt now leads by a plurality of 48 votes. The Democrats say many errors were discovered and will contest. All precincts are now in.

Easy Victory.

The football game between McLean and Vanderbilt University Medical department team Friday was an easy victory for McLean by a score of 41 to 0.
